

As CEO of Street Positive, Terry Boykins is responsible for the development and implementation of collaborative social impact campaigns intended to bring greater importance to the prevention of child maltreatment and trauma.

Of interest is his focus on the economic and financial impact, over the lifespan, involving child abuse and neglect, sex trafficking, sexual assault, domestic violence, incarceration and mental health. His most notable saying, "If you don't spend time with your child, someone else will. We Guarantee It!"

Mr. Boykins has obtained degrees in Marketing, Management and Communications. And, is a graduate of California State University, San Bernardino. He is also a Life Member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Prior to venturing as a social entrepreneur in 1994, Mr. Boykins achieved success as a corporate executive in the consumer products industry.

A recipient of over 450 local, regional and national community service, Mr. Boykins is widely sought after nationally to present on real, significant and sensitive topics involving the emotional and physical safety needs involving children of color.

In 2015 he helped organized BREAK Teen Trafficking and presented "Parents vs. Pimp$: The Ugly Truth." Of which he received the "Recognition of Distinction" award, by parent engagement groups, for helping to curb sex trafficking.

In 2014, Boykins introduced "Daughters Lives Matter" to promote the importance of "healthy" father/daughter relationships. And, in 2016, he collaborated with Women Wonder Writers to launch "Halt The Assault: Men at The Mic" to curtail sexual assault.
